Hello. I'm Paulle Kwok, Principal of Australian Christian College in Sydney. Our vibrant school serves students both on campus at Marsden Park and via distance education across New South Wales. In the next couple of minutes, you'll learn about our plans and hopes with students learning on campus. Our school is truly blessed to have a team of dedicated Christian teachers who take a genuine interest in every child in their care.

The teachers are unified in their faith as followers of the Lord Jesus Christ. Faith, hope, love, trust, and respect are the guiding principles when dealing with students. We are building a biblical foundation in the life of every student. From an academic perspective, we are committed to excellence in teaching and learning. We are thankful for good NAPLAN results, and students are able to complete their HSC at this school. Our school is also well-known for our technology capabilities. Technology is seamlessly integrated into the learning program so students are ready for the world of tomorrow.

This school is one of many Australian Christian Colleges across Australia. This network provides students with additional opportunities including international mission trips, and also gives teachers collaborative learning opportunities with colleagues across the country. Perhaps, the best spec of the school, which is not often spoken of but most appreciated, is its culture. Here, students respect each other, and teachers love their students. This positive culture is affirmed by the constant parent praise, which is seeing school continue to grow year by year. If this school sounds like the kind of environment where your child would thrive, I invite you to visit the school and find out more.
